

BOW VALLEY RESOURCE

Including Arrowwood, Milo, Queenstown, Shouldice and Mossleigh

Volume 2, No. 49

ARROWWOOD, ALTA., JULY 27, 1933

Subscription $2.00, U.S.A. $2.50

The Lyles Visited by First Baptist Mission, Circle, of Calgary

On Tuesday morning, the 18th inst., most of the ladies, members of the Lookhart group of the Mission Circle of the First Baptist Church of Calgary held their annual outing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lyle. They came in regular picnic style, bringing well filled baskets of delicious eatables, consisting of ham, beef, lettuce, salmon and other varieties of sandwiches with different varieties of salads and cakes galore. There were two large freezers of ice cream which seemed to alleviate the intense heat of the day. As far as could be observed they all brought their appetites and while there was abundance to eat, most of it soon disappeared.

Mrs. Lyle being a member of that particular mission circle it was natural for the ladies to feel perfectly at home and they seemed to enjoy the outing to the fullest extent. As they were leaving they sang, "For they are jolly good people" which was very much appreciated by their hosts.

TRAIN SCHEDULE AT GLEICHEN

No. 1 Westbound	8:25 p.m.
No. 2 Westbound	8:45 a.m.
No. 2 Eastbound	4:31 a.m.
No. 4 Eastbound	7:00 p.m.

Arrowwood

West bound, Tues., Thurs. 1 pm
East bound, Wed., Fri., 1:30 pm

NOTICE

to customers of town well — by paying cash you save half your money.

D. J. Beagle

SUNSHINE SERVICE STATION

Gordon McDonald, Prop., • Mossleigh

Machine Work

Crank Shaft Truing

Re-babbiting on Bearings and Conn. Rods

Acetylene Welding and General Repair Work of All Kinds

SEE US FOR YOUR TURNER VALLEY GAS

Shouldice Waves

Many of the farmers of this district are cutting grain.

Many Shouldice residents, as well as outsiders attended the Old Times' Picnic last week.

Last Friday the Shouldice and Swastika schools went together for their annual picnic. A very enjoyable day was spent by everyone. A well arranged sports program was at hand. A great deal of excitement prevailed while Shouldice and Swastika students were engaged in playing softball. The score was 12-8 in favor of Shouldice.

Friday evening about fifty people gathered in the Community Hall to spend a few well socialized evening in honor of Mr. D. Dunsmore, our genial A. P. Grain buyer, who leaves for Innisfail. A good time was enjoyed by all.

The grain elevators in Shouldice are having electric motors installed.

Mr. G. E. Harp and family spent Sunday in Cluny; Miss Edith Harp returning with them after spending the previous week there.

And Then They Milked the Cow

We have heard so much, lately, of "big business" getting the "little fellow," that we are printing an excerpt from an exchange just as an example of how it is done.

Ten men who were financiers chipped in ten dollars each and bought a fine cow that gave ten gallons of milk every day. The milk was divided at night and each man received one gallon as his share.

Soon the neighbors far and near heard about the wonderful cow and said to one another "Think of getting a whole gallon of milk every day. What a wonderful return on a ten dollar investment. I wish I had a share in her."

When this talk was repeated to the ten men, they held a meeting and one of them said "Let us give these people what they want. Our shares in the cow cost us ten dollars each, and we can sell other shares at the same price."

So they went to a printer and obtained 1,000 sheets of paper bearing the legend: "One share in the cow." Then they sold 500 of those shares at $10 each which brought them $5,000 and divided the other 500 among (Continued on page 4)

The Vacation Bible School in Progress

The Vacation Bible School in progress at the Church of the Brethren is increasing in interest and attendance. It began on Monday morning with an enrollment of 55. Tuesday morning there were 61 pupils present, Wednesday, 77. The school is divided into four groups. Miss Grace Brubaker is in charge of those who have never been in attendance at public school. Mrs. Bowman directs the work of the primary. Miss Mildred Vancil has the juniors in her care. Mrs. Lawrence Larsen supervises the intermediates. There are a number of helpers who are of use in the various departments and wherever needed. Mr. Lewis is making good use of his truck in transporting pupils to and from the school. About one-third of the total attendance come with him.

Worship is emphasized more than any other phase. The program is varied by hymn singing, note book work, dramatization, etc., in an effort to have the children enjoy the sessions while benefiting by them.

Any children not yet attending are welcome to do so. But each day counts for so much that not a day of delay should be allowed. There are no charges or fees. The expenses of the school are kept at a minimum. Those able and desiring to do so will be given an opportunity to contribute towards the expenses of the school in one or two offerings.

School is in session each forenoon except Saturday and Sunday from 9:00 to 11:30.

A closing program will be given one week from next Sunday evening which will consist of things which have been learned during the two weeks of school sessions.

The following is a tentative daily schedule:
9:00 — 9:20 Departmental study of Worship material, Hymns, songs, scripture.
9:20 — 9:45 Worship - entire school
9:45 — 10:15 Bible study and correlated note book work
10:15 — 10:30 Recess
10:30 — 10:45 Memory work, Bible passages
10:45 — 11:15 Missionary stories, Health or habit stories, Dramatization, Craft projects
11:15 — 11:30 Closing period
Entire School.

Arrowwood Market Prices

Wheat
1 Northern	63.9
2 Northern	61.1
3 Northern	56.5

Oats
2 C.W.	28
Barley
3 C.W.	37

Flax
1 C.W.	1.32

Calgary Quotations on Livestock

Steers—	Good and choice $3.75
Hotters—	Good and choice 3.00 - 3.75
Cows—	Good 1.75 - 2.00
Sheep—	Good handy wgt. 3.00 - 3.50
Hogs—	Select bacon 5.45
Bacon	4.95
Butchers	4.45

Swimming Pool Near Completion

Once again Community spirit and co-operation has manifested itself in Arrowwood and the project this time is a new swimming pool.

The committee appointed by the Guides, Mr. Leonard, Mr. Lewendon and Mr. Hesketh, took charge of the operations and if all goes well the pool will be open by this Sunday.

The Local Committee of the Girl Guides looked after the collecting of the cash donations and were successful in obtaining the amount of $17.00.

The money will pay for the necessary fencing, ropes, etc. The labor required in the excavating and the building of the dam is being contributed by a number of the men of the town.

Mr. T. Robinson, of the Canada Land and Irrigation Co., surveyed the site for the pool a few rods west of the Little Axe Hill and it is water from this company's ditch that is being used.

The pool is pleasantly situated, being in an ideal location for picnics and for even district camp. Close by is a spring of clear water for drinking purposes. An excellent view of the river is given from this point and it is planned to further beautify the surroundings next year by planting trees and shrubs.

Mossleigh News

Mr. Stafford and family, of Aldridge spent Sunday in Mossleigh, visiting his brother.

Mr. G. MacDonald has moved his house from its former location to Main Street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Balman left on Tuesday for a visit at Warner and other southern points.

Arnold Bowden, of Calgary, was a visitor in town this week, stopping on his way through to visit his parents at Champion.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Platt of Calgary and Mrs. Morgan Platt of Farrow were visitors at the W. Balman home on Sunday.

The Farrow United Church is holding its annual Sunday School picnic at Wyndham Park on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield and family spent the past week at Banff, enjoying a very pleasant holiday.

The dance on Saturday evening was well attended, there being the largest crowd this season.

Lionel Hansen, Rogie Rhodes and the Thurber boys are spending the week camping at Banff.

Mossleigh softball team defeated the Arrowwood team on Sunday afternoon and the Dodgers in the evening game last Sunday. Nice work boys.

Quonkay has been spending his time these days building a boat. He says he intends to spend the rest of the summer at the river.

Arrowwood Notes

Mr. A. L. Ingraham spent the week-end in Calgary.

Doris McInenly is visiting this week with Grace and Freda Board.

For Sale — Massey-Harris Combine, 15 foot cut, in good shape. Apply Resource Office.

Clara Beagle is spending a week's holiday with her sister Mrs. J. Mackie at Carleton Place.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Johnston spent the week-end at Carmanagay.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Moir spent a few days last week at Stettler visiting with Mr. Moir's brother.

Mr. J. M. Welms was a business visitor to Calgary on Monday.

R. H. Burr and family are leaving today for their home at Alliance, Alta.

Mrs. A. Horning returned last week from Banff Hot Springs, much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bishop and sons returned on Saturday from their holidays spent at Edmonton.

Mrs. E. J. Llesemer and daughter, Norma, left Tuesday for Vancouver where they will visit with relatives during the month of August.

Harvest is rapidly approaching. Have you looked over your canvases yet? Bring those that need repairing to me—C. L. Archambault.

The West End Garage have been appointed dealers for the famous U.S. battery. This battery has several exclusive features one is the new "active" oxides, which possess desirable properties which produce considerably greater battery capacity and longer life. The initial shipment has already arrived.

We hear a lot about speed records these days, but this is the first one that we heard of where a truck was the mode of conveyance. Gaylen Jones, with a truckload of furniture set out from J. H. McCann's at 4:30 a.m. He stopped for dinner at J. C. MacLeods in Halkirk and then went on to Alliance where the furniture was unloaded. He arrived home at 3 a.m. He covered 400 miles in 23 hours. Not bad at all.

IRVINE'S SERVICE GARAGE

Auto, Tractor and Truck Repairs
Tire Repairs, Battery Repairs
Gasoline, Oils, Greases
Goodyear Tires and Tubes
Irvine's Service Station, Mossleigh

District Conference of the Church of the Brethren a Success

The Bow Valley Church of Arrowwood was well represented last week at the District Conference held at Kindersley, Saskatchewan. The Conference began Monday evening July 17 and closed Thursday afternoon, July 20. Throughout its entire length it was a splendid success. It was made such by the hearty co-operation of the Merrington congregation where the meeting was held and the splendid addresses of the speakers on the well arranged program.

The theme of the Conference "A more excellent way" was taken from 1 Cor. 12:31. And truly the Conference showed us "A more excellent way." It gave us a vision of greater development in Christian education. It shows that the Church of Jesus Christ has unlimited possibilities in Western Canada.

The young people had quite a prominent place in the programs throughout the week. Several services were conducted by and for the young people from the several congregations. Their work was highly appreciated and was the subject of frequent comment.

The missionary sentiment was strong. Two entire services were given to this line of Christian endeavor. The speakers at these respective services were Rev. L. McCune, Irricana, and Rev. John Wiesend of Arrowwood.

The third and last day of the Conference was devoted to the business of the Church. Questions of considerable moment were presented and considered. Rev. J. S. Culp of Arrowwood was chosen delegate to the International Conference which will convene next June, probably at Colorado Springs, Colo. The next District Conference will convene in Arrowwood July 17-20, 1934. The Arrowwood congregation anticipates this meeting and hopes for its success.

Buffalo Hill News

Jim and Frank Wynt left last Monday on a motor trip to Banff and Waterton Lakes for a week's holiday and intend to make full use of the time at their disposal.

Frances and Shirley McInenly are spending a holiday with friends at Carleton Place. They expect to be home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Peterson and son of Vulcan were weekend visitors at the Jenniejohn Home, also Mr. and Mrs. M. Murray of Gleichen, Miss Thomas of operating staff, Val-Telephone Exchange and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Broderick, Mr. and Mrs. Jenniejohn, and Norman are at Sylvan Lake Eleanor is keeping house at home.

Mrs. Hirst Goldthorpe and son Win are motoring to Vancouver. They expect to be away two weeks and intend stopping at places enroute.

Mr. M. P. Marshall left last week and for Vancouver, seeking better health in a slower altitude.

(Continued on page 4)

Friday Night, July 28th

ARROWWOOD THEATRE

"Smoke Lightning"

George O'Brien in a Zane Grey Story

Branded as a killer—hunted, hunted, driven to desperation, he turned on his hunters and shot his way to freedom and the heart of the only girl.

USUAL COMEDY

8:30 p.m. Adults and High School Students 25c, Children 15c

W. N. U. 2003

Keep fit!
Headache, heaviness, depression—banish them by keeping your system clean!
Take Eno's Fruit Salt every morning.

TAKE ENO'S FRUIT SALT

HEART OF THE NORTH

BY
WILLIAM BYRON HOWERY

(FIVE Parts)
Copyright by William Byron Howery

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

As he went out along the slope toward the post, he was realizing, with bitterness of heart, that his sacrifice eighteen months ago, the greatest sacrifice a man can be called upon to make, had been worth no more than fluff. It had cost him dearly, it had brought pain to Joyce, it had brought them tonight to their hour of separation. And yet, through all the mood of the knowledge that in his sacrifice he had set all personal desires aside and had kept faith with a partner dead and had held sacred his promise to Curt Spauling, until Elizabeth herself had made that promise impossible of fulfillment.

Again he lived over that hour when he came upon a trapper's deserted, snow-drifted hut, and found Curt there, stricken with the disease, with both lungs frozen, deserted by his treacherous Indian helper, dying as valiantly as he had lived. He felt that to man on earth could understand the emotion that racked him as he knelt beside the bunk, whispering to a partner who was going down into the dark, leaving a sister penniless, alone in the savage North.

"Alan, she loves—him," he could hear those broken whispers that could never be still. "If you'd marry her—my sister, Alan... I would! mind—going—if it costs you—partner and brother, too—over and over again that dying whispered plea, and the ineffable peace that came when Alan made consent: "I will, I will, Curt. I love her, too, because she's your sister."

And now, as he thought of that lone funeral sled trip home, and as he glanced up the slope toward Alan's towering log cabin, his lips fashioned silently.

"I felt, Curt. You wouldn't have cried more of me than what I did. But it couldn't be, it couldn't be."

Joyce had helped Bill take her personal baggage down to the wharf, and had talked over with him his arrangements about forwarding the peltry to Edmonton and selling the trading store. Waiting for the steamer, she had quietly stepped out to Mrs. Drummond's house into the gas-lit street, telling no one where she had gone.

She was aware that Alan intended to come down before the steamer left, and in the garden to make that impossible. If he came down to the wharf at the last moment, she felt she could say good-bye calmly enough, with a brief handshake a voyageur's nod and ban chance; but a longer time with him would be unbearable.

As she stood there, half-hidden by an arbor of morning glories, she saw a dim figure come out along the slope from the direction of the woods edge, and as it passed her, scarcely a dozen feet away, she recognized Alan. He went on to the factor's house, she heard him knock, heard him ask for her, heard him panted, "That's odd," when Mrs. Drummond said she'd been gone for half an hour.

By a lightning flash Joyce saw him as he started on past her. Something in his manner, in his dejected head, in his slow beaten gait, let her know he was aware she deliberately had gone away in these last minutes and de liberately had shunned a parting with him.

As Alan went slowly past the garden, unconscious of the lightning flashes, thinking only that Joyce, who had burned his picture and his gift, was now refusing a last hour with him, he heard a voice in the wintry blackness. It sounded like his name. In surprise he whirled toward the arbor of morning glories, and as he stood there, listening, he heard it again—his name—Joyce's voice, hallooming:

"Alan! Don't—don't go... I'm—I'm here..."

CHAPTER XIV.

The North's Call

As she worked on a report that evening in the little library room, Joyce would pause now and then and listen intently, with her dark eyes peering into the blackness outside the window.

It was time for Alan to be returning with Bill and Fred from a patrol of the Mackenzie. In the sharp vigorous gusts of October wind she kept thinking she heard the drone of the launch. Across the room, from her, on a blanket-padded couch, little Marion Montgomery had fallen asleep over a picture book, her tiny moccasins off, one arm hanging over the couch. In the deep dreamless sleep of babyhood the little tot was oblivious of the things that marred the peace of the winter night.

There was any sacrifice in having that tiny companion in her home. Joyce had not yet become aware of it.

The report she was working on was a statement to her former bureau chief in Ottawa of the money expended in her work among the Indian women around Edmonton.

During a lull in the wind she suddenly heard the unmistakable sound of the big police boat skimming up the wave-tossed Mackenzie. Putting aside her report, Joyce ceased being Deputy Indian Agent at Fort Edmonton, N. W. T., and became the wife of Inspector Baker, officer commanding.

With a glance at the sleeping tot she flung a cape over her shoulders and went out the cabin and ran down the dark winding terrace toward the wharf.

When the yellow eyes of the launch drew near, Joyce saw a tall figure step upon the prowl half-deck and stand with his hand on the painter chain. When he jumped out upon the plank, jerked the launch alongside and helped the painter around a pier-head, that turned to her, but in hand, reproaching her:

"Girl, you shouldn't have come down here in this new dress. You've got to begin learning to be careful—"

Federnut snapped off the launch scowling, and as the two men began gathering their packs together, in the mauling darkness Joyce released Alan's reproach, rising on tiptoe, oblivious of his wet slicker and the cold steel of his gun buckle.

After supper, when Alan had made himself regimental again after the six-days hard patrol, he stepped out into the living room where Joyce was finishing her report.

She beckoned him over to her, holding out several letters which had come for him on the Chipewyan mail. She had not opened them; but now when he brought a chair beside her, she read them with him.

Buzzard had dashed off a page from his apartment address in Winnipeg. He had "shown" a chair to the result of the fair and pumpkin shows in his new Detaville, and had found that line too tame. Right now he was flying the Winnipeg-Edmonton lap of the Air Mail. Next spring he was going to show the "smoke hawk" division of the Manitoba Fire Prevention, with a circus of ten acrobatic "places under him."

"Some time this winter the postscripted, we might just slip on the grate and hop down to visit you. But Alan, you find out first if Joyce holds anything against me for telling you she burns a chair to the result of a tired, run-down condition after field to this morning's mission."

"Did you notice the 'we' Alan? He puts her into a postscript! She's just a mere afterthought! Who is she?"

"Louise of Kamloops, is all I know," Alan answered.

RAILS USED AS MEDIUM

Conductor Can Converse With Other Trainmen Ahead Or Behind

The conductor in the caboose of a long freight train can now carry on a conversation with the engineer in the locomotive cab, or he can converse with those in charge of trains immediately ahead or behind his train on the same track by means of a new type of communication system developed by engineers of the General Electric Company.

"This new mode of communication is not radio, carrier current or direct telephone in principle," says an announcement by the company. "Ear-phones are not required; with five watts or less put into the inductor coils, loud-speaker reception of ample volume to overcome train noises is received over a rail distance of five miles or more."

"The rails are used as the medium for the transmission and pick-up of signals, which are put into and taken out of the rails by inductor coils, suspended from the caboose and locomotive at minimum clearance distance above the rails. These inductor coils are directly connected to the transmitting and receiving equipment."

Lesson For Canadian Soldiers

Learned Necessity Of "Mopping Up" At Battle Of Giverny

The battle of Giverny, when Canadians displayed great gallantry by bringing up to the front lines two pieces of field artillery, was recalled at Montreal by Arthur Currie, who commanded the second Canadian brigade on that occasion. When an attacking party penetrated as far as the third enemy trench it was taken from behind by a party of the enemy who had concealed themselves in dugouts in the first trenches and had been overlooked, a fact which proved fatal to the first battalion, which was caught between two fires. It was in this battle that the Canadians learned the necessity of "mopping up."

Sir Arthur, now principal of McGill University said:

"The guns brought up into the front line did considerable damage before being disabled. Twenty of the 23 officers participating in the attack were killed."

The occasion of Sir Arthur's remarks was the anniversary of the battle.

Youth Seen In Attempt To Adjust

Later, when the lights of the post were out, when the day log had turned to red coals and Joyce had carried her sleepy little charge away to bed, they went outside the cabin. In the night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the feeling that in the illimitable woods all their creatures were seeking out warm dens and storing food for the frozen months. Up and down the wilderness rivers and far-flung over the Strong-Wood a whistler had gone abroad of a mighty change brooding—a whisper that drew less "mopping up" into heading light, yet was but a challenge to those more valiant of heart.

The spirit of winter was in the air. The night sky they heard the howling of Arctic geese, last of the migrants, winging swiftly south, and they had the

Only Firestone

Gives You All These

EXTRA VALUES

—and at No Extra Cost

Year after year Firestone has led the way in giving our owners extra tire values to save them money. Now Firestone gives you an amazing new guarantee which fully protects you for twelve months against any condition that may render a Firestone Tire unfit for further use as a result of blowouts, cuts, bruises or any other road hazard excepting punctures or running the tire flat.

For this alone it would pay you to buy Firestone—but, in addition, Firestone is the only tire that can give you all these extra values:

1—Two Extra Cords Under the Tread.

2—Gum-Dipped Cords.

3—Balanced Construction.

4—Non-Skid Safety Tread.

As a result of these extra features Firestone gives 25% to 40% longer tire life—no extra cost.

Low Priced Tires. If you want a low priced but dependable tire, ask for the Firestone Oldfield. As good as most first line tires, but costs 20 per cent less. Made by Firestone and guaranteed for 12 months.

Larsen Implements

"House of Service"

Arrowwood and Mossleigh

holders. And the ten were entitled to vote in their own right for each still held his original share.

"Now," said the one who did the talking, "We must organize. This company needs a president, a treasurer and eight vice presidents. That gives each of us a job. And since there are ten of us and the cow gives ten gallons it is moved and seconded that each of us receive a salary of one gallon of milk per day. All in favor say 'Aye'."

The motion carried without a dissenting vote. And then they milked the cow.

Additional Locals

(Cont'd from page 1)

Gwen and Marion Gilbert were guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. M. Shouldice last week.

Mr. Harry Sharland of Hanna arrived in Arrowwood and has taken charge of the Searle elevator.

Mrs. Speer of Vulcan visited with her sister, Mrs. McCann last Sunday. They leave today for Sylvan Lake for a week. Miss Mary McCann will accompany them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nissen of Calgary spent last week-end camping at Lake McGregor. On returning home they visited the former brother Mr. N. Nissen.

A combined Milo Queenstown service was held in the park at Lake McGregor last Sunday at 4 p.m. In the absence of Mr. Brown who was at the coast, Rev. V. M. Gilbert of Gleichen was in charge.

The Arrowwood Softball team defeated the Mossleigh Boys on the home diamond with a score of 15-9 last night. Arrowwood was slow in scoring in the first five innings, Mossleigh leading 8-4. However in the sixth inning the local boys brought in eleven runs.

Mr. J. P. Beagle returned on Tuesday from a 400 mile motor trip through Saskatchewan and he reports that he did not see any crops better than in the Arrowwood district and in places in the southern section there is nothing. Mr. and Mrs. Beagle and daughter also motored to Nelsburg, Sask., where they visited with Mr. Lee Beagle, returning by way of Edmonton to Sylvan Lake where Mrs. Beagle and Mr. and Mrs. R. Culp and children are camping for a few days.

Bow Valley Resource Independent.

Published every Thursday morning at Arrowwood, Alberta. Subscription—$2.00 a year in Canada, $2.50 in the United States. All advertising and changes of copy must be in our hands by Wednesday noon. Advertising rates furnished on request.

NORMAN G. CARY,
Editor and Publisher.

And then they Milked the Cow

(Continued from page 1)

themselves as their reward for being smart.

Each man of the ten now had 51 shares, whereas in the beginning each had but one.

But one of the ten began to worry.

"Look here," he said, "Every fellow who bought in share in this cow will expect a gallon of milk to-night, and the cow gives only ten gallons. When the milk is divided into one thousand and ten parts, these new shareholders won't get a spoonful. Shares will drop to nothing. We'd better unload while we can."

So the ten men went out on the street to find investors and each of them sold the fifty shares that had been awarded to him, and thus they obtained a second $5,000 to divide among them.

But now night was drawing near and again one of the ten began to worry.

"There will be a row at milking time," said he, "Hasten around and persuade each of the shareholders to sign a proxy, which is a joker authorizing you to cast one as you think best the vote to which his share entitles him. Then return with the proxies and we shall do some voting."

At twilight the men met at the barn and in their hands were 1,000 signed proxies to represent the absent shareholders.

Buffalo Hills News

(Continued from page 1)
titude. It is hoped he is successful.

The twenty year old son of Bandmaster Weale, of the Vulcan Band, was drowned at the swimming hole in the Little Bow on Monday.

Here and There

Gasoline sold in Canada during 1934, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, amounted to 601,412,000 gallons. Nearly half the total was consumed in the Province of Ontario.

The recent Canadian census reveals that of the population of Canada fifty-two per cent are of British origin; twenty-eight per cent, French origin; seventeen point five per cent, all other European races, and about four-fifths of one per cent, Asiatic.

The Saskatchewan Department of Natural Resources will liberate about 2,000 nine-week-old pheasants throughout the province of Saskatchewan during the coming summer. The birds are being held in captivity at Moose Jaw prior to liberation.

Despite a somewhat later season this year, crop conditions throughout the Prairie Provinces provide cause for optimism in the opinion of J. M. McKay, general agricultural agent, Canadian Pacific Railway. He based his view on improved moisture conditions and numerous snow showers, which at some points was the best since 1928.

Completing a sensational successful visit to Canada and the United States lasting several months, the Oxford Graduate, recently aboard the Empress of Australia for England under the leadership of Rev. H. Allen Viers, their Canadian visit terminated with a house party at the Chateau Frontenac at which 500 members were present.

The death at Vancouver recently of P. W. Peters, former general superintendent British Columbia district, Canadian Pacific Railway, severed one of the last remaining links on this continent with the pioneering railroad days of the early seventies. His service extended to nearly 43 years. He was born in Saint John, March 25, 1866.

Grant Hall, senior vice-president, Canadian Pacific Railway, back from three-weeks' inspection trip that took him to the Pacific Coast, stated that he had seen and heard much of an encouraging character during his trip and noted a contrary nature. He added that there was distinct revival of hope and restoration of confidence.

Farm management through the application of business principles, practical and theoretical knowledge and ordinary horse sense to farm problems is a necessity of this day of lowered prices. T. C. F. Herzer, manager Canada Colonization Association, told the Winnipeg Kiwanis at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, recently, The Association has extended its activities in Saskatchewan, where it now has 34 zone managers with 1,344 farms of a total of 467,500 acres under supervision.

More than 300 scientists from 31 countries attended the fifth meeting of the Pacific Science Congress opened at the Congress Hotel, Victoria, June 1, and continuing at the Vancouver Hotel, Vancouver, until June 14. It was the first time the Congress has met on the American side of the Pacific Ocean. Lord Rutherford addressed the Congress from all homes in England, his speech being carried by radio close on 6,000 miles to Vancouver.

DOES IT MEAN TIRE TROUBLE FOR YOU?

Can your tires stand the strains and shocks of rough detours—roads under construction? Why not play safe? Come in and let us check over your tires. Prices on new Good-years are very low.

Arrowwood Garage
R. L. Culp, Prop.
Arrowwood - Alta.

E. D. ARCHAMBAULT
Barber - Arrowwood
Patronize Home Industry and
Keep the Money in Our Own Town
Arrowwood Barber Shop

It is better to have insurance and not need it, than to need it and not have it. See Omer Larsen

Clocks, Watches, Spectacles, Sewing Machines, Typewriters and Gramophones

Cleaned and repaired by an expert workman with 40 years' experience in Factories, Etc.

If you are contemplating the purchase of a new watch, come before doing so, to
A. ANDERSON
Jeweler Arrowwood

- O-K -

RUBBER STAMPS

PROMPT SERVICE

BOW VALLEY RESOURCE

Household Helps for the Hot Weather

Norge Patented Rollator Refrigerator

Norge is Complete with every modern feature. See the Norge before you buy

Deforest Electric Washing Machine

The very latest in Electric Washing Machines. Call in and see it

The Modern Grillette and Sandwich Toaster

ARROWWOOD GARAGE

R. L. Culp, Chevrolet Dealer

Milk or Cream

Any Quantity—Any Time

RATES FOR QUANTITY LOTS

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Phone Orders to the Vancil Family 415

ARROWWOOD DAIRY

MRS. E. LEWENDON

Licensed Nursing Women

Moderate Rates

ARROWWOOD - ALTA.

WAGIN' TUNG

Vol. 2, No. 49 Arrowwood, July 27, 1935 Items for Thot

Swelting Heat

The past few days has been the warmest period we have experienced since we came to Arrowwood and the heat, coupled with the grasshoppers, is exacting a heavy toll on the grain fields, but through it all the people, generally, seem to be taking it with a smile, discouraging as it may seem, we are still better situated than many of the districts surrounding us.

Harvest will soon be upon us in a few days and if present weather conditions continue it will be one BIG RUSH you had better anticipate your needs in our line and make your wants known to us so that you will have the least possible delay when you get into the busy season.

These days are trying days on your motors. Is the oil you are using lubricating it properly? If you are in doubt you can do no better than depend on our Auto-lenes. We have a grade and weight for every purpose.

Our New John Deer Binder is set up and is ready for your inspection. If you are in need of a new binder come in and see the latest in a 1933 binder.

■ ■ ■ ■ ■
An insurance company issued a life policy in the name of one, Samuel Johnson. Premiums were paid promptly for a few years, but suddenly they stopped. After sending a few delinquent notices the company received this reply:

"Dear Sirs: Please excuse us as we can't pay any more premiums on Sam. He died last May. Yours truly, Mrs. S. Johnson."

Good Equipment Makes a Good Farmer Better

Larsen Implements

"House of Service"
ARROWWOOD and MOSSLEIGH

U.C.G. BINDER TWINE

When you buy U.C.G. Binder Twine you count on the same satisfactory service you have learned to expect when you market your grain through United Grain Growers.

BUY U.C.G. BINDER TWINE

Deliver Your Grain to

UNITED GRAIN GROWERS LTD.

Elevators at Arrowwood, Milo, Queenstown, Mossleigh and Shouldice.

Counter Sales Book Prices Have Been Reduced

We can supply you with any size or style of counter sales book in any quantity

Resource Office. Arrowwood

Good Year Belts and Belting

Belt Lacing of all Kinds

Theshers Supplies, all Kinds

L. H. Phillips

HARDWARE

Arrowwood - Alberta